Rich Strike at Silver Cliff.

SILVER CLIFF, June 10.—Great excitement was created here to-day by an assay of 97½ ounces of gold from the Queen Anne lode near Johnson gulch, six miles east of the Cliff. A Mr. Thompson and three brothers Haskill, recently from Missouri, are the lucky finders of the bonanza. The deposit seems to be a fissure vein several feet in width.

GENERAL NEWS.

Washington News.

COST OF THE WAR.

The secretary of the treasury forwarded to-day to the senate a statement of the expenses incurred by the United States in the war of the rebellion; also the specified amount paid on principal of the public debt thereby incurred. The statement of expenses growing out of the war from July 1st, 1861 to June 30th 1879 inclusive, amount in gross expenditures $6,796,792,580, ordinary expenditures $609,549,123 62. Specific expenditures of the war $6,187,233,850.

THE MINING BILL.

The bill reported from the house committee on mines and mining this evening to provide for a survey and disposal of the mineral lands is the bill on that subject which was framed and sent to congress by the public land commission, amended only in a few particulars of no importance. Mr. Stevenson was authorized to report it by a bare majority of the committee to-day, and its being placed upon the house calendar is considered by the Pacific coast representatives to amount to nothing. The Short bill agreed upon by them at a meeting at Senator Jones' residence and reported from the same convention nearly two months ago has the precedence on the calendar and will be passed, if any action at all be taken by this congress concerning mineral lands, long before the public land commission measure can be reached, and it is conceded by the friends of the latter, that the passage of the former will kill their measure. The Short bill above referred to, agreed upon by all representatives of the mining states and territories, including Belford of Colorado, prescribes a general system of square location with the very important exception of all lodes which have a dip of more than twenty-five degrees from the horizon and protects the location of prospector's claims, namely, where there are no surface indications, by giving a citizen the right to hold a blind-ledge by doing two hundred dollars worth of work upon it per annum.

HOUSE PROCEEDINGS.

Mr. Tucker moved the house resolve itself into a committee for the purpose of considering the tariff bills. The republicans filibustered, and Tucker, stating that he didn't desire to obstruct the public business, withdrew the motion.

Mr. Harris moved to proceed to public business on the speaker's table. The republicans refused to vote, stating they didn't want to take up the electoral count bill. General Hawley, however, stating he was not willing to dodge that bill, but wanted it taken up for consideration and action, voted in the affirmative, and was followed by several other republicans. The point no quorum being raised, the yeas and nays were ordered and the motion agreed to yeas 143, nays 28.

Mr. Bicknell said the joint rule now under consideration was as far as it went substantially the same as the bill which the house committee on the electoral count had reported and therefore he would support it. He contended the determination of all questions arising out of the disputed electoral votes belonged of necessity to both houses of congress.

Mr. Robeson denied the power of congress by virtue of a mere right to govern their own proceedings, to make laws, and do acts which are to affect the government for all future time. He expressed the conviction that the constitution, in authorizing congress to make laws to carry into effect its provisions, meant only laws—not rules, by which the vote of a state could be thrown out. He therefore argued that the proposed measure should be in form of a law and not a rule.

Mr. Updegraff, of Iowa, opposed the measure because it sought to take away from the states their rightful power to choose in their own manner their electors, because it would at best only add to the doubt and confusion which now existed on this subject.

BRIEF NOTES.

The conference report on harbor and silver bill has been accepted by both houses.

President Hayes nominated General John F. Hartranft collector of customs at Philadelphia.

There is likely to be a lively debate over the marshals' bill to-morrow as the republicans have three hours given them for debate.

The house bill admitting classical antiquities, duty free, passed with Kirkwood's amendment remitting duties on material used in curing meat for export.

There was quite a discussion yesterday over the national health board. Senators Eaton and Bayard said they had been too extravagant, and opposed increase of appropriation.

Finley and Donnelly mean to make their investigation pay well. Mr. Finley charges $850, or $25 a day for attending the session of the anonymous letter committee, and Donnelly charges $500 counsel fees.

Grant Still in the Field.

NEW YORK, June 10.—The World's Philadelphia special says Colonel McClure telegraphs to the Times from Chicago that General Grant quietly slipped into the Palmer House this morning, and I never saw him look more gentle or composed. He came unheralded at least to the multitude. He chatted pleasantly in passing his acquaintances, went leisurely to the ladies' parlor and the outer doors were closed against all when he entered. In half an hour he stepped out in the same mysterious manner and the faces of Cameron, Logan, and Storrs were visible as the lieutenants with whom he had been in conference. What transpired in that brief council of war will probably never be known to the public, but after Grant had hurried off to the Milwaukee train, both Cameron and Logan said publicly that Grant would be nominated without opposition in 1884. It appears to be confidently expected according to this writer that Garfield will be beaten and that one term of democratic rule will make Grant's return to the helm of state a necessity.

Oregon Election.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 10. A Portland dispatch says the latest election returns from the interior of the state indicate that McGeorge, republican, is elected to congress by a majority ranging from 1,000 to 1,500. The entire republican ticket for judges of the supreme court is elected beyond doubt. The majorities are difficult to obtain, but it is safe to estimate an average at 1,000. The complexion of the legislature can't be stated, although there are strong indications that the republicans will have a majority in both houses.

CHICAGO, June 10. The Inter Ocean's Washington special says the democrats are not elated by the news from Oregon. Several from the Pacific slope bluntly denying the correctness of the press dispatches that state it has gone republican. Senator Slater don't give up the state to the republicans. He says the heaviest democratic counties are the last that can be heard from, and the returns from them may save the state to the democrats. He believes the democrats have carried the legislature anyhow, regardless of what the press dispatches claim. It is known, however, that the immigration into Oregon for the last few years has been very heavy and mainly from stalwart republican states.

Illinois Democratic Convention.

SPRINGFIELD, June 10. The democratic state convention met at 10:45 with a full attendance of delegates. It was called to order by F. W. McNelly, chairman of the state central committee who nominated Hon. S. Marshal for temporary chairman. Marshal was unanimously elected and made a brief speech, arraigning the republican party and ticket and predicting the success of the democracy in the coming campaign. Hon. Lyman Trumbull, who had just entered the hall was loudly called for and finally responded.

Committees were then appointed and a recess was taken. Upon reassembling the committee on credentials reported no contests and all delegations full. The temporary organization was made permanent and the following were appointed delegates at large to Cincinnati: Matthew W. Fuller, I. S. Marsh, Jno. A. McClernand, and W. F. Dowdall. District delegates, presidential electors and state central committees were appointed.

A resolution was offered by a Chicago delegate very laudatory of Seymour as the nominee for the president and, while not instructing for him, earnestly request the delegates to the convention to take such action as they deem advisable to present the name of Horatio Seymour before the national democratic convention. The mention of Seymour's name was greeted with great applause and three cheers. Confusion unusual. A representative of Morrison and one of the Palmer wing succeeded in making a speech against instructing for any one and thus ruling out Illinois' own candidate. Finally the roll was called on the question of referring the resolution to the committee on resolutions which prevailed by a vote of 373 to 273.

Lyman Trumbull was nominated for governor; Lieutenant Governor, Lewis B. Parsons; Secretary of State, John H. Oberly; Auditor, Louis Startel; Treasurer, T. Butterworth; Attorney General, Lawrence Harmon. The resolutions oppose a protective tariff and a third term, demand civil service reform, equal rights, no military interference, gold silver and paper interconvertible, no land grants, no right to seven fraud [illegible], and the protection of labor.

Heavy Storms.

COUNCIL BLUFFS, June 10.—A special dispatch to the Nonpareil gives the particulars of a terrible tornado that went through the southeastern part of Pottawattamie county last evening. The cyclone or tornado is described by an eye witness as something terrible. The wind clouds were first observed. They formed both east and west of Wheeler's Grove Point, where the most destruction occurred, and in a short time came together. They came to the ground near the grove, traveling eastward. The track of the storm was about half a mile in width, and swept everything before it, demolishing farm houses, barns and other buildings, and carrying some of them bodily for a hundred feet and then dashing them to the ground in pieces. At one place a farmer's house was surrounded by a frail fence. It was picked up and dashed to pieces in the yard, leaving every board of the fence remaining in its place. There were from fifteen to twenty persons killed outright and many wounded, while others cannot be found. Those known to have been killed were J Osler, wife and two children; W Pace, wife and his two children killed and another child fatally injured.

ST. PAUL, June 10.—A special to the Pioneer Press states one of the most violent storms ever known occurred in southeastern Minnesota this morning. The wind blew a hurricane and water fell in sheets. At Winona houses were unroofed and other damage done. Trains were suspended and delayed.

Tilden's Candidacy.

NEW YORK, June 10.—Daniel Manning of Albany, editor of the Argus and secretary of the state committee, also Tilden's confidential adviser during the gubernatorial term, had a long interview with Tilden last night. He authorizes the statement that Tilden has no substitute in view. His name will be presented at Cincinnati and he and his friends are entirely confident he will be nominated.

CINCINNATI, June 10.—S. K. Donovan, Tilden's right hand friend, is here arranging the old man's business accounts for the democratic convention. He says Tilden is certain of the nomination and thinks the republicans can't seat Garfield easily. He says Sherman's managers at Chicago were either most impotent or the most treacherous set of politicians who ever met in convention.

President Grant's Views.

CHICAGO, June 10. The Inter-Ocean's Milwaukee special during an interview with Grant this evening says he expressed the opinion that Seymour would be the nominee of the democracy. In relation to the republican nominee he said General Garfield had always been right and that in case of his election, his administration would be satisfactory and harmonious with the advanced thought of the country. The general did not allude in any length to his position before the Chicago convention. He said he was grateful to the friends who had stood by him there, particularly to Senator Conkling, who should have been nominated he said.

Seymour Did Say So.

NEW YORK, June 10.—The Herald's Syracuse special says Governor Seymour was met on Monday last in the corridor of the Oneida county court house at Utica by Judge Graham, associate justice of the supreme court, with whom the governor is on good terms. The conversation naturally turned upon the proceedings of the Chicago convention. Governor Seymour was much settled. He said: I see that a delegate from New York, Roscoe Conkling, says in a speech at Chicago that Grant could carry New York against Seymour. If I happened to be a nominee at the Cincinnati convention, I should certainly carry New York, but I am in no sense a candidate. The governor added he regretted the moment, for I don't think the nomination belongs to New York. Judge Graham took the precaution to write those significant words a moment after and it was he who gave them to my informant.

Gala Day in Milwaukee.

MILWAUKEE, June 10. This is the great day of the soldiers' reunion. One hundred and fifty thousand strangers are in the city from all parts of the country. This morning there was a grand parade in which 20,000 veterans and 700 inmates of the National Soldiers' Home were in line, and the veterans of the Mexican war. They were reviewed by Generals Grant and Sheridan. To-night the city will be illuminated and there will be speeches, fireworks, etc. This afternoon Grant and Sheridan were entertained by the loyal legion. To-day is a legal holiday in the state.

Domestic History.

NEW YORK, June 10. John Gempel, of 19 Delaney street, beat his wife this morning until he thought her dead. Then he threw her out upon the stairs, bolted the back room doors, set the house on fire and cut his throat from ear to ear. The firemen found him upon the bed enveloped in flames. They dragged him into the street where he died. The woman's skull is fractured and death is expected. The cause is jealousy.

Garfield's Chance of Success.

NEW YORK, June 10. Trenor W. Park was interviewed by a World reporter yesterday. He says he had offered to bet $10,000 on the success of Garfield. His choice had been Grant, but thought the convention had acted wisely in uniting on Garfield.

Pacific Coast for Garfield.

NEW YORK, June 10. The Herald's San Francisco special says the Pacific coast is for Garfield. The city press and telegrams from the north and south are grandly satisfied with the nomination.

Garfield's Movements.

CLEVELAND, June 10. General Garfield held a short levee here this morning and then left for Hiram college to attend commencement exercises. He made a charming address there to the graduates. He will remain at Hiram to attend the alumni reunion to-morrow and then go home to rest.

Greenback Split.

CHICAGO, June 10.—The Farwell Hall greenbackers held a lively session this morning. The question under discussion was whether they should maintain a distinctive organization as against the convention at the exposition, and whether the club organizations in the various states should be preserved. The former proposition was voted down, but the latter was decided in the affirmative. In the exposition the committee on credentials reported 617 of regular delegates entitled to seats, and 244 others, including the Farwell Hall delegates. A minority report was made, excluding latter delegates and a debate of some length was floored on motion to adopt the minority report.

The committee on platform reported a resolution a column long. They start out with a long preamble which discourses on the subject of monopolies, the money question and the uncertainty of the markets, etc., and declares the sovereign power to make and issue money rests in the government which should control the volume and make it full legal tender; second, for a speedy payment of the government bonds, abolition of national banks and substitution of legal tenders for their circulation and the unlimited coinage of silver and gold; third, the protection of labor and an eight hour law, and labor statistics; fourth, slavery being simply cheap labor and cheap labor being simply slavery, the importation and presence of Chinese serfs necessarily tends to brutalize and degrade American labor, therefore immediate steps should be taken to abrogate the Burlingame treaty; fifth, the forfeiture of non fulfilled railroad grants on the public domain for homes for actual settlers; sixth, regulation by congress of inter state commerce, and denunciation of old parties for fostering corrupt monopolies; seventh, legislative control of transportation; eighth, the republican party has unjustly discriminated against the soldiers in favor of the bondholders; ninth, graduated income tax and just taxation of all property; tenth, denounces as most dangerous the efforts everywhere manifest to restrict the right of suffrage; twelfth, demands absolute democratic rule for the government of congress and taking away from committees the power to smother bills; thirteenth, no bondholders of the government, no sectional strife.

In the afternoon the confusion was so great that several sergeants-at-arms were appointed with Denis Kearney at their head to help preserve order, which they managed to do at the risk of breaking up the convention. Finally a permanent organization was effected by the selection of R. R. Trevellick of Michigan for permanent chairman.

In the late afternoon session the convention adopted the report of the committee on rules, after voting down by a large majority a proposition to make a two-thirds vote of the convention necessary to the selection of a presidential candidate. A delegate from Massachusetts moved to allow incompleted delegations to cast the full vote of their state.

In the confusion which followed there was a bewildering entanglement of points of order, personal explanation, amendments, substitutes and demands from half a dozen members at a time for recognition by the chair, in the midst of which the chair called on all delegates to take their seats and announced that he would tire them out and obtain order if it took until Christmas and that they could not now secure recognition by standing up even if they stood on their heads. Finally the proposition was adopted.

A memorial of the socialistic labor party was read. It expressed a desire for representation in this body for the purpose of making warfare against the money power, and claimed to have 100,000 votes in the socialistic ranks.

On motion of Mr. Stubbs, of Iowa, the part of the committee on credential's report which had not yet been adopted was taken up and the section favoring the admission of 44 socialistic delegates, and also the admission of representatives of the union greenback party as delegates was adopted.

LATEST.

CHICAGO, June 10.—No nomination at 2.30—still jawing.

Need of Better Transportation Facilities.

NEW YORK, June 10. Jacob S. Tabor, in his address before the board of trade yesterday, said that the merchants of the Pacific coast were chafing under the railroad monopoly, and would heartily co-operate in any attempt toward reform. Their hopes lay in the construction of a canal across Nicaragua, which they consider preferable to the Panama route.

FOREIGN.

Eastern Affairs.

LONDON, June 10. The British, French, Russian, Austrian and Italian ambassadors, resident at Berlin, and Prince Hohenlohen, of the German foreign office, will meet there Wednesday next, aided by experts who are to compose the Dalmatian commission. Preliminary labors will consume two weeks. The conference has no control over the attitude of Turkey and Greece, as they will not be represented. It seems it has been assumed by the powers so far that their decision will be accepted as a matter of course.

Bucharest difficulties between Roumania and Bulgaria has been removed.

Civil War in South America.

LONDON, June 10. Statements received last evening confirming the report of an actual outbreak of civil war in the Argentine Confederation, and that President Apellandi had left Buenos Ayres with an army. A private telegram dated Buenos Ayres, June 8, says the southern railway company has stopped its train service so as to prevent the seizure of rolling stock by either party, and the national government has removed its stores of gunpowder from the city. The recipients has a telegram which construes a statement as evidence that President Apellandi is still in control of affairs and prepared for any emergency. Presidential election will occur to-morrow.

REPUBLICAN TICKET.

FOR PRESIDENT,
JAMES A. GARFIELD.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT,
CHESTER A. ARTHUR.

"I WOULD ENDOW THE TWO DOLLARS WITH EQUALITY AND MAKE COINAGE FREE."—From Speech of J. A. Garfield, February 21, 1878.

"Mr. Speaker, every man who is opposed to the use of silver coin as a part of the lawful currency of the country, I disagree with. Every man who is opposed to the actual legal use of both metals, I disagree with. Every man who is in favor of any bill that will drive one of these metals out of circulation and give us only the other as money, with him I disagree." From speech of Hon. J. A. Garfield of February 21, 1878.

Governor Routt does not feel like a "Morning Star."

The nomination of General Garfield is arousing immense enthusiasm all over the country.

Mr. Flannigan said the delegates went to Chicago for office. Did our delegates go for this?

Mr. Loveland ought to buy for the Denver News Mrs. Fawcett's "Political economy for Beginners."

It is due Judge Belford to say that he remained faithful at his post at Washington during the Chicago convention.

The Southwest says Routt received four federal appointments from Grant. He would have been ungrateful not to have stuck.

The News got a little nearer spelling DeGolyer right yesterday. By and by it will know all about it, and then it will know that its charges are false and unfounded.

A decent canvass is predicted as the result of Garfield's nomination. Leadville Democrat.

The News had not reached Leadville when that paragraph was written.

The Leadville Democrat calls Garfield a "Hayes number two." The Democrat is right. Garfield will be elected as Hayes was and will have a clean, pure, patriotic administration.

Mr. Garfield is for the unlimited free coinage of silver, but wants this brought about in a sensible way. He don't think we can have free coinage while the mints of the Latin Union are closed.

If the census now will show before the state convention meets that there are 300,000 people in the state, two representatives ought to be nominated by the republicans and elected this fall, as suggested by the Leadville Chronicle.

Among the gentlemen who have been most favorably mentioned as a candidate to succeed Belford is Senator Webster of Summit county. He would make an honest, able and industrious representative. He is a gentleman one can not meet without respecting.

In 1876 when the Bland silver bill was before congress, Mr. Garfield said: "I regard the remonetization of silver as a foolish and fatal piece of legislation. We have got rid of silver coins and we should stay rid of them." Now let the bonanza kings whoop it up for Garfield. Denver News.

In 1876, there was no such bill as the Bland bill in existence. That the News however may not call this a quibble, we will claim that Mr. Garfield never uttered the words, the News quotes him as having uttered. We base this assertion on what we know of Mr. Garfield. If the News did not lie in the above, it can easily disprove it by printing the volume and page of the the congressional record in which this may be found.

Mr. John Sherman comes out of the fight standing better than he did before. The fact that a number of office holders in the south voted against him shows how groundless was the charge that he was abusing the government patronage to secure the nomination. A single instance is enough to show this. Mr. Smith of Florida is a federal office-holder and went as a Grant delegate to Chicago. He was pledged to vote for Grant but was threatened by anti-Grant men that he would lose his office if he did not desert Grant and vote for Sherman. This brought about the following telegraphic correspondence between Chairman Hicks of the Florida delegation and Secretary Sherman:

CHICAGO, June 7, 1880.
The Hon. John Sherman, Washington:
Your friends are demanding that Delegate Smith from Florida vote for yourself in violation of instructions and of his own solemn pledge, and are threatening him with loss of position in your department if he refuses. Do you approve such action? I expect an answer. W. W. HICKS,
Chairman Florida Delegation.

WASHINGTON.
W. W. Hicks, Chairman Florida Delegation:
No. I do not. He should vote as he pleases without fear or favor, and so as to represent fairly and fully the wishes of his constituents. JOHN SHERMAN.

His great name and towering military genius are never to be dragged through the slums of another American election. For that, we are as thankful as his bitterest enemies can be. Denver Republican.

This was the feeling of Grant's true friends from the beginning who saw that his candidacy was injuring him. The only ones who wanted him to run were those who expected to get into power with him.

DO YOU FIGHT FOR SPOILS?

One of the most honest utterances at the Chicago convention was by Mr. Flannigan of Texas in opposing the civil service reform resolution. In his remarks occurred the following sentences:

We are not here for the purpose of providing officers for the democracy. [Loud cheers and laughter.] There is one plank in their platform that I have ever admired, and that is, "to the victors belong the spoils." [Laughter and applause.] We expected this convention would nominate a stalwart one who, after we have won the race, as we will, will give to those who are entitled to position, office. [Cheers.] What are we here for? [Applause and long continued laughter.] I mean the members of the republican party are entitled to office, and if we are victorious we will have them. We came here for that purpose.

This is a blunt statement of the opinion of the stalwarts who have so severely criticised the present administration which supposes that the republican party fights for victory so that its great principles may prevail in the government of this country and not that hungry office seekers may hold offices. The latter according to Mr. Flannigan is the end for which the party exists. It was for this that Mr. Flannigan attended the convention and voted for General Grant. And we may say that this view is uttermost in the minds of those now opposing the administration. We are glad that Mr. Flannigan spoke as frankly as he did, because it invites the scorn and contempt of honest republicans for such a view of party success. Mr. Codman of Massachusetts very indignantly repelled the idea that he had attended the convention to get an office. He desired the success of the party that every citizen, white or black, might be allowed to cast a ballot and have it honestly counted; that our public school system might be kept clear of sectarian influences and be preserved; that our national obligations might be honored, and not that one republican voter in a hundred should hold some paltry office. If this is the purpose then 99 out of 100 voters vote for nothing and might as well keep away from the polls. The sooner certain members of the republican party realize that the party is fighting for perpetuity of certain principles and not for spoils, the sooner will the republican party rid itself of all doubt about its success. The republican party has lost the votes which made success certain in 1860 to 1870, because it has had within the last ten years so many leaders who have no higher idea of the purpose and aim of the republican party than that it exists to obtain spoils to distribute to the faithful. Think of Sumner, Chase and Lincoln working for success for such an end? The Chicago convention, we are glad to say, snubbed Mr. Flannigan and others holding like views by passing the resolution. It said that it supposed republicans came there because they love the party principles and not spoils, to prepare to fight a party that tried to destroy this government and not to fight for office.

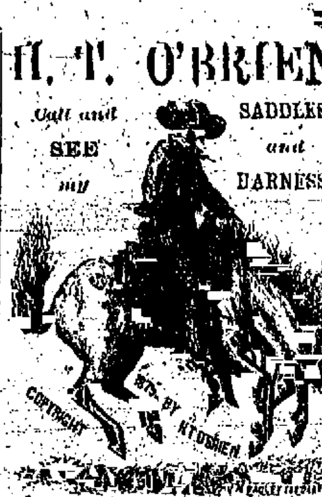

The Comic Paper.

The News has so profound a disgust for any real facts in regard to coinage, that it is rendering itself the laughing stock of those who have any knowledge upon the subject. Denver Times.

Getting Back to the Truth.

The republican party is greater than any of its leaders. It has buried many of them, but it is still alive and vigorous. Denver Republican.

TURNER ASHBY

How the Confederate Cavalry Leader Interfered in a Deadly Quarrel to Arrest the Sacredness of Hospitality.

During that period of suppressed excitement in Virginia after the John Brown incident at Harper s Ferry, and before the outbreak of the war, a young man from one of the northern states passed a week or two as a guest in the house of one of the oldest and most distinguished families of northern Virginia

The young man was frankly a republican in politics, but the fact made no difference whatever in the courtesy or kindness of his host, or in the treatment given to him by the gentlefolks of the surrounding country, to whose houses he was freely invited, as a gentleman, visiting in the house of a gentleman, their neighbor His business in the neighborhood was social, not political—he was, in fact, paying his addresses to his host's daughter and his political opinions, though perfectly well known, were not discussed, and, perhaps, were scarcely thought of at all.

One evening during his visit this young man, C. D was invited to company with his host's family to attend a reception given by Turner Ashby on the occasion of a tournament He went, of course, mingled freely with the other guests, and found nothing in his reception to mark any difference between himself and other gentlemen present, until the supper was served Then a disagreeable incident occurred

A young man of the neighborhood, who, as C D afterward learned, was a rejected suitor for the hand of the woman to whom he himself was laying siege approached him as he stood talking with her, and without speaking to C D at all, said to the lady

"Isn't it a sublime piece of impudence for a Yankee and a black Republican to come down here now and accept the hospitality of a Virginia gentleman, after all that has happened?"

The young woman replied, quickly.

"Mr B , you should be the last person to criticise the catholicity of my father s hospitality, you have profited by his indisposition to draw social lines too sharply You have been received by him as a guest upon several occasions."

The reply was so stinging that the youth straightway withdrew from the supper room, and C D , thinking it better to retire from a company in which he might be less welcome than he had supposed, went to the cloak room for his hat and coat He had scarcely entered the door of the room when B approached him saying

"What I said just now had reference to you, and was meant to be insulting."

Young C. D had not been used to encounters of this kind, and had little disposition to engage in affairs of honor, but he seriously intended to prosecute his suit for the hand of his host's daughter, and he knew instinctively that all hope of success there must be abandoned if he failed to resent an insult of so gross a nature. He therefore struck his antagonist in the face with the glove which he had just drawn from his hand.

This was the signal for the persons present in the room to interfere to prevent a brutal fight with fists. A challenge in regular form was quickly given and accepted, and C D , anxious to have the affair ended as speedily as possible, insisted that the duel should be fought at once in a grove near the house, by the light of torches.

All the persons concerned prepared themselves immediately, and were about to quit the room for the appointed place, when Turner Ashby, white with rage, burst through the door. A whisper of what was going on had reached him

He entered the room, paused a moment, and then advanced to B—, quivering as he went forward so violently that half the persons present supposed that he meditated an assault upon B . His voice, however, was low, and his speech very deliberate.

"What is the time fixed for our meeting, Mr. B ?" he asked.

"I am to fight Mr. C. D immediately," answered B ."

"I beg your pardon," replied Ashby, "but Mr C. D has nothing to do with this affair. He came to my house to-night as my guest. When I invited him to come the invitation was Turner Ashby's word of honor that he should be treated as a gentleman, it was my voucher for his character to my other guests, and for the character of my other guests to him, I am sorry to have to explain these points of good breeding to you, Mr B , but you have shown your ignorance of them by insulting my guest That insult is mine, not his, to resent. He is here under my invitation, and that is my pledge of protection. If you are not prepared to make a proper and satisfactory apology at once, both to my guest and to myself, you must fight Turner Ashby, and the time and place already agreed upon will answer as well as any other. What do you say, sir?"

Now, fighting a duel with a young stranger wholly unused to firearms and to fighting of any sort was one thing, fighting a duel with Turner Ashby, in a rage, was very well understood to be another and a much more serious thing and young B 's consciousness of this difference wrought a a complete change in his mood. He pleaded in excuse for his conduct the fact that he had been drinking too freely, and signed the pair of apologies which Turner Ashby wrote.

C D ended his visit soon afterward, and the war came on to prevent its repetition Turner Ashby's gallantry in war and courage and command over men, and the story of his death, are all matters of history now "but his high character," says C. D , "never impresses me so strongly in reading of his military exploits as it does when I look at that faded slip of paper written by his hand and signed by B It is a curious autograph." New York Evening Post.

Mr. Gilbert on Board the Pinafore

Like the survivor of the captain and the crew of the Nancy brig, Mr. Gilbert has absorbed in himself the functions of manager, stage manager, scene painter, author and actor His method of procedure is worthy of study, as he pursues it in its earlier stages at his house in the Boltons, an oasis of South Kensington and the center of a kind of artistic colony, or on board of his yacht the Pleione a schooner of sixty three tons quite fitted to the sea for she made a voyage to the Black Sea and Iceland before she became the property of her present owner On board the Pleione Mr Gilbert writes his piece—that is, performs the smallest part of his work with infinite comfort, His great collie dog, Roy, lies down at his elbow, and as the Pleione slips along ideas follow swiftly enough Blank verse a favorite medium of Mr. Gilbert, comes easier afloat than ashore The author of Pygmalion is strongly in favor of verse composition Prose is well enough in its way but blank verse compels severe attention, and rhyming verse is most precious on account of its suggestiveness "Why Pinafore?" it is asked, as fresh cigars are lighted "what a neat and lucky name" "Pinafore, the author explains, "was suggested entirely by the rhyme Three cheers more" sung when the gallant captain comes on board, must have something to rhyme with it Semaphore was the first idea but this was subsequently set aside for "Pinafore London World

Genial John Brougham

When poor John Brougham was in great pain, and believed to be very near his end, the other day, he said he was willing enough to surrender life, for he had a good deal of it, and had enjoyed it thoroughly He spoke the truth He has always had a good time, though not in a selfish way Indeed, selfishness forms no part of the veteran actor s nature, rather the reverse of it He has ever been quick to help whoever has needed help his time and purse have ever been at the command of others Often, when remonstrated with by his friends for his over generosity he would say "Perhaps you are right, but what s the use of having any money if you can t give it to somebody worse off than yourself?" Very few men of his means have probably distributed their substance more freely upon the worthy and unworthy than John Brougham He has lived well in an epicurian and benevolent sense Frequently when suffering from twinges of the gout, he has said "Well, I ought not to complain, I ve earned this pain by years of assiduous application" Several years ago, while confined to his room from an attack of gout a sympathetic friend called, and, observing a handsome portrait of the comedian in his younger days at the foot of the bed, remarked "There was no gout at that time, Uncle John, eh? "No, was the reply, "it hadn t appeared then, but I was laying a superb foundation for it, though Brougham might easily have been rich had he been so minded He has made money readily, and has spent it with equal readiness He has never tried to accumulate anything and in fact, with all his cleverness and versatility, has been lacking in practicality. This has been shown in his managerial enterprises, which have invariably turned out ill N. Y Times.

The Mysterious Recruit

Occasionally incidents of the Brooks-Baxter war come up in the minds of participants Let the little puddle of blood that one day stained the street opposite Stoddard s bank serve as the matter of fact of this story. One night while several Brooks men were in the back room of a saloon drinking, a tall, black negro man entered. There was a broad scar on his face where a mule had kicked him years before. His expression was as grim as that of the black man poetically met by Joaquin Miller on "Rousau s Isle" "What do you want?" asked one of the men, addressing the black intruder "I wants ter jine de cause," he replied "Well, you can join. Have something to drink?" He shook his head and stood as though awaiting orders The party kept on drinking, but the grim applicant for military station stood without moving. There was something so uncommon in his mien that even the half drunken men stopped occasionally between the tipping of glasses and regarded him. When morning came he silently followed the men to their quarters He was given a gun and assigned to duty There was a series of alarms on the day of his enlistment, but he walked to and fro in front of the state house, looking straight ahead and paying no attention to the confusion around him. Next day he was stationed on the corner of Main and Markham "Stand here," said the officer, "and don't fire until you are ordered" He stood as immovable as the building around him. Tall, muscular, straight, he remained, with his chin slightly raised, and caught the full force of the sun's heat that fell on his face Perspiration rolled from his leathery brow, but he did not even raise a hand to wipe it off. He had stood it nearly all day when a party of men on the opposite corner opened fire on him There were several persons standing near him, and he said "Da's alluden ter me. I'le turn de shots in a nudder direktion," He marched out into the middle of the street, and stood the same sentinel as before, awaiting orders to fire. Another shot from the men across the street brought him to his knee, but he held up his head as though listening for the command, "Fire." Another gun was levelled at him but he did not bob his eye. The aim was deliberate, and when the gun fired, the black head lost its poise. The chin sunk upon the ponderous breast, and slowly he leaned forward until he lay across his gun, dead. Little Rock Gazette.

Members of Matt. France Hose Co., No. 1, are requested to be in the hose house this evening promptly at 7:30 o'clock.

Hay is becoming very scarce in the market, in consequence of which it is now commanding from $30 to $35 per ton.

By this morning's GAZETTE it will be seen that Mr. Hallowell has made quite a change in his business. Cap. James Benedict has purchased the agency for all of his fire insurance companies, which are some of the best in existence. Mr. Hallowell will hereafter devote his whole time to the real estate business.

Prof. Macallister effectually succeeded in entertaining a full house again last evening. The cash prizes of $10 and $5 were won by Mrs. Fanny J. Pearcy and Miss Dora Hosmer. The entertainment will be repeated again to-night and to-morrow night. A matinee will also be given to-morrow afternoon, at all of which entertainments a capital prize of $15 will be given.

We had the pleasure of meeting on our streets yesterday Mr. B. U. Dye, of the firm of Stephenson & Dye, prominent sheep raisers. Their ranch is located on Big Horse Creek about 80 miles from Colorado Springs. He informed us that their losses from the drouth are not as large as they anticipated and they expect to preserve 80 per cent of their increase, which is a good average considering the season. Mr. Dye stated that the Rushburg Bros., who are located about 18 miles from them on the same creek only saved 300 lambs from a herd of 1,800 ewes.

Personal.

Professor Keir and Mr. F. L. Martin went to Silver Cliff on the morning train yesterday.

Mr. J. P. True came down from Poncha Springs yesterday and is quartered at the Springs hotel.

Mr. W. M. Tronstine of Denver, one of the most popular commercial men on the road is in the city.

Mrs. C. T. V. Case left on the morning train yesterday for Trinidad which place she will make her future home.

Governor Gilpin came down from Denver on the Leadville express Wednesday night and spent yesterday in the city.

Judge T. A. McMorris returned yesterday from San Louis where he has been holding court. He goes to Conejos next.

Mr. A. B. Webb representing the extensive and well known firm of Field, Leiter & Co., of Chicago is registered at the Springs hotel.

Dr. Myer and wife, of Cincinnati, have rooms at the National. He anticipates locating in the Springs and entering into the practice of his profession.

Dr. J. W. Collins returned last evening from Tennessee with his family. We clip the following from the Jackson, (Tenn.) Tribune and News:

Dr. J. W. Collins returned last week from Colorado Springs, Col., and we learn will move his family there and settle permanently. We regret to lose so able a physician and so clever a gentleman, and a family so accomplished and popular. We congratulate the city that will be there future home on gaining such valuable citizens, and hope that the doctor and his family may be prosperous and happy.

More Complaints.

To the Editor of The Gazette:

While you are ventilating the subject of nuisances, will you please call attention to the filthy condition of the ditch on the west side of Tejon street, north of the alley above the postoffice. It is made the receptacle for all the filth of the neighborhood and is a disgrace to our city. Let it be cleaned.

CITIZEN.

SECOND DAY, JUNE MEETING.

Large Attendance and Excellent Sport.

The second day's meeting at the Pike's Peak Driving park, which took place yesterday, was a decided success. There was apparently more interest taken in the races than upon the first day. Long before the hour set for the races numerous fine carriages lined the course in the vicinity of the judges' stand, it being their desire to command the best view possible of the course. The ladies especially seemed to have turned out in force.

Messrs. F. P. Brown, C. H. White and Emery Lowe again occupied the judges' stand, and at 3:15 called time for the first race, which was a free for all trotting and pacing, best three in five, for a purse of $250. D. C. Holly entered br m. Colorado Belle, Wilbur & Hundly g g. Sea Foam, and Joel Roe b s, Eagle Bird. In the toss for positions Eagle Bird secured the pole; Sea Foam second and Colorado Belle outside. After considerable jockeying and scoring, the word "go" was given, Colorado Belle, the favorite in the pools, taking the lead with Eagle Bird a close second, which position they both retained and giving the heat to Colorado Belle—time, 2:45. Sea Foam worked badly and came near being distanced.

The second heat was the closest contested one of the day and the start, a good one, was in favor of Eagle Bird, but before the quarter pole was passed, Colorado Belle took the lead which she retained until the third quarter pole when Roe's stallion displayed a fine burst of speed and skipped to the front, passing under the wire just a head in advance, with Wilbur's side-wheeler again in the rear. Time 2.44.

The third heat was somewhat of a surprise to all and its result was unexpected by the holders of pools on the favorite. The horses got off in good style with the mare again to the front. Sea Foam, who had in the previous heats lagged somewhat, commenced to realize his position now displayed some fine pacing, although he did not overcome his opponents until they turned down the home stretch, when a fine spurt of speed was exhibited. He passing the wire about a length ahead of Eagle Bird. Time 2 41.

Each horse now had a heat and the betting seemed to be in favor of Sea Foam. He had evidently got down to his work, and Wilbur smiled with satisfaction as he rode up to the judge's stand, and was awarded the fourth heat in 2 46.

In the fifth heat Eagle Bird and Sea Foam were both coming down the home stretch in good shape when the latter lost his feet, giving the mare the heat in 2.45.

Colorado Belle was evidently not intent on winning the race, and in the sixth and last heat the contest was between Sea Foam and Eagle, both being desirous of winning the heat and purse. Eagle Bird secured a good lead which the grey gelding could not overcome, and won the heat in 2 46, thus winning the race.

The novelty race, a running mile dash, had but two entries, Dan Lamasney's b. m. Fusilade and J. F. William's b. g., Bay Billey. The race was an interesting one was easily won by the former. Time of first quarter 25½, second quarter 53, third 1.35.

A quarter mile dash between Ed Newton's Cayote and Johnny Williams' Jake was won by Cayote in 25½.

A quarter mile running dash had been arranged for between Bucklin's Broncho and Ted Stephenson's Alhambra, but owing to the latter leaving the track and injuring Harry Newcomb, its rider, the race was declared off.

Thus ended the June meeting on the new driving park, and Mr. John Hall, its promoter and proprietor should be highly commended in his efforts to offer to our citizens a meeting which has given general satisfaction.

What Wool is Worth.

The condition of the wool market is just now a most interesting subject of discussion among sheep growers and especially among the ranchmen of El Paso county. From a careful examination of our eastern exchanges we learn that the receipts of wool in Boston for the last week in May were nearly 4,000 bales less than for the corresponding week last year. The importation of foreign wools has ceased for the season and home owners are glad to part with their clip.

Messrs. Denny, Rice & Co., of Boston, wool commission merchants, send us their circular for the week ending June 5th, from which we take the following: "The market remains in the same quiet state previously noticed, and the steady decline in prices for some weeks past has failed to lead to any increased activity. The new clip is now making its appearance at all points and it appears to us that manufacturers and dealers have not, for many years, been so indifferent about purchasing. At this time last year there was very little wool unsold in California, Texas, Kentucky or Georgia, but this year a large portion of the clip in these states remains unsold. In Ohio, Pennsylvania, and Michigan there has as yet been nothing doing and no disposition to operate in these states as yet, while last year, at this time, buying had already commenced. In fact, almost the entire wool clip of the country is still in the hands of growers, and if manufacturers, dealers and speculators continue to keep out of the market for some weeks longer, it will tend to unsettle prices more than ever. The absence of buyers for some months past, as stocks are now beginning to accumulate at all points in the interior, and growers begin to feel uneasy at their absence. The early buyers, who made purchases in the interior some weeks ago, find it difficult to turn over their purchases except at a loss, and this will also tend to make them more cautious in future operations."

Few sales of Colorado wool have been made and no trustworthy prices such as would govern the market have been established. The rates are nominally as follows:

OFFICIALLY DECLARED INSANE.

Conclusion of a Celebrated Case.

We are able to announce, officially, this morning that Mrs. Errickson is insane. We make this announcement upon the strength of a verdict to that effect, given by six intelligent jurymen, which verdict was founded upon the testimony of three physicians.

Our readers will remember that Mrs. Errickson and her husband have been made the subjects of much comment because of the unfortunate condition of their domestic relations. Their infelicity has resulted in a separation between the two and an action for divorce on the part of the husband, an epileptic fit and weeks of sickness terminating in madness for Mrs. Errickson, and a severe cowhiding at the hands of a mob for Mr. Errickson.

The case has called forth no end comment and has resulted in establishing two very firm and opposite sets of opinions upon the subject. We have desired to limit our remarks upon the matter to a mere statement of the facts as we obtained them, believing that the matter would come before a judicial tribunal and there receive some definite settlement.

Mrs. Errickson has within the last fortnight made two attempts to commit suicide by hanging. One party allege that these attempts were a pretense, as all her sickness has been a pretence, the other party allege that the wretched woman actually attempted to take her life. We were cognizant of both these occurrences, but as in neither case the result was fatal, we refrained from publishing the particulars. The conduct of Mrs. Errickson at last grew so eccentric that it was decided to hold an inqust as to her sanity, and such an inquiry was conducted before Judge Colburn yesterday afternoon. The jury secured by Sheriff Smith was composed of gentlemen of good judgment and intelligence, and was constituted as follows: J. R. Kennedy, Joseph Kenyon, A. H. Corman, D. M. Rose, F. E. Dow and E. T. Marsh, County Physician Kimball, Dr. Palmer and Dr. A. Wellington Adams testified before the jury. Counselor John Murphy appeared for Mrs. Errickson. The jury brought in a verdict to the effect that Mrs. Errickson was not of sound mind and that there was danger of injury to herself should she be allowed unrestrained freedom. Sheriff Smith has the woman in custody and has telegraphed to the superintendent of the insane asylum, asking if he can receive the patient. In the mean time, we are glad to say, that the woman will be properly cared for here.

Dr. E. B. Arnold, formerly connected with the Kansas City eye and ear infirmary, has located in Colorado Springs and will enter into the practice of his profession. We call attention to his professional card in this morning's issue of the GAZETTE.
